

THE C&WM NEWS

December 2018

General Meeting

Wednesday 19 December

7.00 pm at GAZA Sports & Community Club, Corner of Main North East Rd and Wellington St Klemzig

WASHPOOL DEER - UPDATE.

Very little activity in recent months due to:

- (a) Little being sighted on last outing, and
- (b) Former Forestry lands now in private ownership – hence need to determine local community involvement and support, which now depends on new owners' use of their new lands.
- (c) Mal Strathearn has undertaken an assessment of likely deer population, and seen only few.
- (d) Overall, there are enough participants for the time being.

CHASA

Following last "NEWS" cover of CWM affiliation with this group, CHASA is evolving, and in the process, has to balance the varying interests of member organisations as well as developing effective relationships with bodies which can be influenced to support these interests.

Please remember that current activities include the 9th Annual Game Dinner (2nd November), which is expected to include the release of the book: "Modern Hunting in SA" – yes, the cost is relatively high at about $120 pp – BUT it is a top class, all inclusive, famous game chef, top guest speaker (Minister?) – All supporting high level representation of our interests.

COMMITTEE / COUNCIL WORKLOAD

Please folks, once again, realise that SSAA-CWM is a totally volunteer organisation, operating in a very sensitive area and having to comply with issues from many controlling organisations such as SAPOL, Safework SA, DEW, huge range of other "clients", and occasionally, obstreperous and demanding members. So please pull your weight, be understanding, and help out whenever possible.

Council meetings are once a month and open to all members – come and take a pew/say your piece/take part.

RANGE DAYS

"Practice makes perfect" is an old saying – and, poor shooting is just not acceptable, especially where humane destruction of animals is concerned. For this reason, CWM organises regular opportunities at the Monarto and NESSCI (in the hills above Tee Tree Gully) ranges for members to sight-in, practice and test your own loads.

If you find full calibre shooting expensive – just bring your .22RF for that practice.

Attendance costs are minimal and if transport is an issue – share with another member.

YELLOW FOOTED ROCK WALLABY PRESERVATION ASSOCIATION Inc. (YFRWPA)

For those new to CWM – in about 2000 CWM (H&C then) helped the establishment of the YFRWPA which purchased an area (142km<sup>2</sup>) of hills adjacent to the Ikara Flinders Ranges NP, where members had found remnants of a colony of YFRWs – then a threatened species. With the removal of stock, control of goats, predators and rabbits, the YFRWs population is doing very well in the Bunkers Conservation Reserve (BCR), which now has very good camping facilities and a growing an income from the Caernarvon Track 4WD self-drive tour (www.caernarvontrack.com).

The YFRWPA is now reviewing its membership (of 100) to foster an active group needed to progress its conservation and development activities – which has resulted in some of the original members, who generously funded the land purchase, to cease involvement - making some memberships available.

If you are interested in conservation work, which includes shooting, baiting, monitoring, some fencing and weed control, as well as general maintenance, in absolutely the most spectacular country in SA – with a historical link to SSAA-CWM - then this is IT.

If you want to see it first – refer: www.caernarvontrack.com and/or www.yellowfoot.org.au .

CWM ACTIVITIES IN 2019.

By the time this newsletter comes out, the PROGRAMME /Calendar for 2019 will have been pretty well settled and available – on website and published - so check out what you want to participate in and lodge your Registration – the activities close to Adelaide fill very quickly.

H&C/C&WM(SA) Inc Accreditation history

The first accreditation course was held at the shotgun section of the Monarto range on 16/12/91.

The Marksmanship was held on the same day on the SSAA Rifle Metallic Silhouette Range. 105 members attended.

David Barrington and Lindsay Best from National Parks & Wildlife sat in on the course and gave us the tick of approval.

The original course was Australianised by Gil Hartwig, Ray Burton with some input from the SSAA (SA) Deerstalkers branch

This was well before GPS and Sat Phones even existed, hence the heavy input on map reading and navigation, this was the main input of Ray Burton who had a military background as an instructional sergeant.

The course was brought back from the USA by the then SSAA National Executive Director Keith Tidswell on one of his trips to talk to the NRA.

The course was the Californian Outdoorsman's safety course as printed in 1947. The New Zealand Mountain Safety course and several others were briefed as they are very similar.

The early course fees were $10 up until May 96 when it rose to $ 25, it then went to $30 on August 03 and to $35 on April 10. September 11 saw it rise to $40 and from 10/15 to $50. It is now incorporated into the CWM joining fee.

We only did 2 courses a year until 2012 when we changed to 3 a year

The early days saw the venue change frequently from The Eastwood Community centre to Pepper Street Magill and to a hall on Prospect Road where we held the course over 3 evenings a fortnight apart before settling at the Bower Cottages in 2002.

The early courses were presented on Gestetner overheads with course notes produced by the same method.

With the ongoing developments in technology the notes have undergone upgrades every few years to keep pace with GPS technology and the change of mapping Datums, the computer printing of maps and the use of UHF radios and Sat phones.

There is no doubt that we will continue to see technology changes in the future and we will update as required to keep up with it.

To date we have accredited 971 members, that means that apart from the current 300 accredited members there are a further 600+ educated, safe hunters in the field.

We have also refreshed 200 current members and accredited 51 team leaders and 18 coordinators.

Further we have accredited 32 range officers and 9 Firearm Safety Instructors.

Vet Student Firearms Familiarization Day

On October 11th this year our organization once again hosted at Monarto the graduating veterinary students from Roseworthy campus for a firearms familiarization course.

This was the sixth year that we have been conducting this day for the university, and it has now become a part of the curriculum for the students.

This year 25 of our members hosted 39 students, and in spite of starting an hour late due to traffic hold-up around an accident, the day went well and we finished at the normal time of around 4pm.

It is a fairly packed day with talks in the morning covering firearm safety, the types of firearms likely to be found available for use on a farm, and calibres and projectiles suitable for using in the euthanasia of animals from small sheep up to large bulls.

Later in the morning we look at heads to show best point of aim/entry, and also open up sheep bodies to demonstrate position of heart and the great vessels leading from it.

After lunch the students are assigned in pairs to each of our members, who take them through gun handling, and firing a range of increasing calibres---- .22LR, .222/.223, .243, .308/.30-06/.303/and.30/30, and lastly, 12g shotgun.

The last exercise is to fire a single round of each calibre into separate cow heads, and then cut the heads open to demonstrate the damage that different calibres and projectiles do in their passage through the head.

Hopefully, at the end of the day, the students will have the knowledge to choose the appropriate firearm and calibre to humanely euthanase animals of any size that they may encounter.

Our members have a wealth of knowledge about firearms and their use, and it is a pleasure to be able to impart some of it to such a responsible and receptive group of young people.

We will be doing this again on Thursday October 17th next year.

If any member would like to be involved, please contact Andy Doube at libandandy@gmail.com

PLANNING A STALK

Brian Whittenbury

How Animals sense Danger

3 senses – sight, smell, hearing

I believe that if the hunter is detected by one sense the animal is alerted if the hunter is detected by 2 senses the animal takes fright and departs to safer places

if hunter is detected by 3 senses chances are the animal will never have been seen

Smell

Are you wearing the clothes you sat in by the fire last night? Animals have an inbuilt fear of smoke

Limit deodorants, perfumes and similar – we are here to hunt – not to smell nice

Insect repellents – use face masks, gloves etc
Use the wind to your advantage.

Sight

Camo clothing is great – make sure you are not too camouflaged to your hunting companions.

Always wear something highly visible – a blaze orange band on your hat – an orange bandana –

Orange shirt – Orange Hat. Animals cannot differentiate orange, reds & yellows but they can between blues, violets etc.

Never wear blue jeans. Wash your hunting clothes separately in plain soap. Detergents usually have a brightener in them which shows as a purple glow to animals – similar to white under an ultra violet light.

Care with reflections – rifle barrel – belt buckles – back pack buckles – shiny rain wear

Hearing

Any non-bush related sounds will alarm animals.

Metallic sounds – chambering round, metal belt buckles rattling

Human voices. If you need to contact other team members – hand signals – low volume whistle – grunt – all are less noticeable than the human voice.

Walk as quietly as possible – very few animals break dry twigs as they walk – a breaking twig is a danger sign to animals

Walk a little look a lot. In heavy bush walk 10m – stop – look for 2-3 minutes - look everywhere – even where you do not think there will be animals – you can walk straight past them

Look for signs – droppings, learn to identify (Tracks, Scats & other Traces is my Bible for identification of what animals leave behind). – urine patches – if tracking will give an idea of how far ahead

If walking in Indian file spread out – up to 50m apart – an animal will often focus on the first person and then show itself when the “perceived danger” has passed

Walk softly – roll heel to toe – you will feel what's under you foot and minimize noise.

Don't always look for full animals- look for something out of place- an unusual tree branch – may be a leg or an antler – a pile of strange looking rocks – it's surprising how often these rocks will get up and walk away. If in doubt check it again & again & again until you are sure.

Before commencement of the actual stalk

Aim of Stalk – what we want to achieve – total eradication. Perhaps harvesting of edible meat

How close do we need to get – harvesting smaller goats for meat may mean getting to within 100 m to ensure a head shot to minimize meat wastage and maximize meat quality.

If culling, an accurate chest shot at 200m may still have a desired result.

Wind direction – If possible, walk into the wind

Lie of the land – easiest approach – highest likelihood of successful approach – shelter –

Discuss as a team who to do what, why, which way, when, timing. Is an observer warranted

Is everyone ready? water, radios, back packs, knows plan, any questions?

Stick to it – once you start the stalk as a group it can be very hard to change plan

“Tracks, Scats and Other Traces” A Field Guide to Australian Mammals by Barbara Triggs, Oxford Press is indeed a most useful resource for stalkers, bush walkers and any one curious about what they may find on the ground in the outdoors. Ed.
