

THE C&WM NEWS

March 2019

General Meeting Wednesday 13th March
7.00 pm at GAZA Sports & Community Club
Corner of Main North East Rd and Wellington St Klemzig

Secretary's scribble

SSAA membership

Membership to SSAA is mandatory in order to maintain membership to CWM (SA). We are a branch of SSAA and this is reflected in our Constitution.

Many members fail to inform us of the expiry date of their SSAA membership when lodging CWM renewals and most fail to inform us they have renewed membership. We do not have access to the SSAA database and will likely never get it, so it's critical that you manage this process yourselves.

While occasionally we can carry out an internal verification at any given moment in time, that's only reliable up to that date. Therefore, we would not know if members whose SSAA membership expires the end of say February, have renewed.

Failure to renew your membership with SSAA may have serious consequences for not only you, but CWM, in so far as insurance etc.

When attending activities, you should be carrying the following documents, as a minimum:

- Firearms licence
- Hunting permit
- Membership card to CWM
- Membership card to SSAA

A simple method is to photocopy all the cards and laminate the sheet and keep it in your backpack. Officeworks etc charge a very small amount to laminate documents.

Please ensure you have renewed your SSAA membership.

Password for CWM webpage

As you are aware, we have locked down our webpage from non-members in an attempt to preserve our intellectual property. The current password is going to change shortly and we'll let you know what it is when that occurs. When you enter the password, as it currently stands, please ensure there are no spaces at the beginning of the word or, after it. It may create a space when you click in the box to type the password, so double check by hitting the backspace key. This will delete any spaces that may have been inadvertently created. The password works, so if you are having problems, it's likely PEBKAC – You.

Notebook covers

Off the back of an initiative thought of a few years ago by one of our esteemed members, we have reprinted notebook covers with our new branding. These are a vinyl cover for a standard top spiral notebook available at Officeworks and elsewhere for probably $1. Simply take the cover with you and find the appropriate notebook that fits. The cover will hold your notebook and tally cards etc. I trust you will find it useful and encourage members to take notes out in the field of events or, things they see or, photograph. I will arrange to post these out to all members over the next week or so.

Membership

Recently there have been a number of new members join. Please make them feel welcome and try to introduce yourself at General meetings etc. Membership cards should be worn so people get to know who you are. I've been Secretary for 3 years now and I still don't know some faces.

First aid training

I have received a number of enquiries from members wanting to undertake a first aid course. It is not mandatory, but is obviously a useful skill to have in the field.

Members are able to enrol in a first aid course of their choice and CWM will reimburse the member up to $100, on producing their certificate and presentation of a receipt.

Therefore, if the course cost $89 you would receive a full refund of the $89 and conversely, if the course was $189, the member would receive a refund of $100.

Please note this is a one off only and all future re-accreditations and training undertaken by the member, would be at the member's own cost without further reimbursement.

Any member who has previously been provided reimbursement, or undertaken first aid training paid for by CWM, is not eligible for further reimbursement. Those who undertake first aid training as a requirement of their employment or profession, should not be seeking reimbursement from CWM.

First aid courses are fairly competitive now, so if you search for various first aid training, you should be able to find one within your price range and near to home. While I am not endorsing any particular provider, First Aid Training Adelaide CBD (www.firstaidtrainingadelaidecbd.com.au) charges $89. There are plenty of other providers including St Johns who appear to charge a little more, as well as having different training packages available. The choice of provider and type of training you wish to undertake, is up to you.

Q-fever vax

A number of members have also made enquiries concerning Q fever vax. Q fever is fairly topical and has been in the news in recent months if not years.

<https://www.qfever.com.au/>

It is logistically difficult to get those members who register their interest actually committed to a date and attending. It usually results in no shows and cost as well as embarrassment to us.

However, while I am not setting a timeline of events, if you email me and register your interest in a Q fever vax, I'll start a list and see what we can pull together. I'll need your name, email address and contact number.

There needs to be a minimum of about 10 to make it worthwhile, as vials of the vaccine can't be held once opened, which affects the cost and we can only arrange 1 provider, hence that's the reason it's cheaper.

There is an expectation that you would pay up front so as to commit. There is always the option of going to your local doctor and arranging for the test and if required vaccination yourself, however, it is expensive. There are only certain practitioners who can test for and administer the vaccine.

MONARTO RABBITS

In an attempt to reduce the rabbit numbers on the range (no, we are not allowed to shoot them!), there will be a person with ferrets from time to time on various ranges at Monarto Shooting Complex.

He is not to be interfered with in any way, and he has the full permission of the Monarto Complex committee to be there.

SSAA SA at the 25th Australian Scout Jamboree

I had the pleasure of being accepted as a volunteer along with other C&WM members Kaz Herbst OAM, Dennis Donovan and Brendan Atkinson at the AJ2019 25th Australian Scout Jamboree recently held at The Bend Motorsports Park (Tailem Bend) 4th to the 14th January.

The Scouts, 8,500 of them aged 11-14, were up for 10 days of adventures in 150 different activities looked after by 2200 Leaders .

Coming from all over Australia, with some from Africa, Asia, Europe and North America they had the time of their lives doing land yachting, ice skating, high tech and trades activities, water activities at Wellington, challenge courses at Woodhouse and of course competing for the holy grail of badges being the BANG badge pictured, these were given to the scout with the best shooting group, all this topped off with a nightly show.

You will have guessed already that the SSAASA shooting range was situated in the Bang Site, our group of volunteers, all SSAA from all over Australia were in three sections, A very competent team that put the kids through a basic safety course complete with visual aids, the Range officers that kept an eye on the safety of the shooting line and the big boss David Handyside that terrorised all with his megaphone.

Our crew ended up putting some 2,300 Scouts plus many extras, Police, support staff etc through the range all having 25 rounds a piece, 20 at the excellent drop targets made by the armourer Kim Mussared, and 5 at the paper which was the yard stick for getting the Bang badge, the pic shown was more the norm than not and I was very impressed with the please and thank you from near all of the kids.

Needless to say, our site was the premium one to attend, voted the most popular, and, without one mishap.

I believe Victoria will be hosting the next Jamboree and will be using our range setup and workings as a template.

There is quite a bit more info on the C&WM facebook site (CWM members only) and the SSAASA facebook site should you be interested.

Three Generations In The Field

I was privileged to have my wife, my son and two of my five grandsons join me and other team members for the annual Malleefowl survey in Karte Conservation Park recently.

3 Generations at work

It goes to show that C&WM can have something to offer for all age groups and interest and best of all it gets the young ones away from their screens and out into the fresh air, learning new skills and observing wildlife. We looked at scats and tracks of animals and discussed the features of each.

Typical nest mound that has been worked

Each nest mound is recorded for activity, scats, tracks and other signs of predation/activity and the boys were keen participants in looking for these signs.

At the tender age of 11, Oliver was the youngest member of the group and led us skilfully from nest site to nest site using GPS, although my son Andrew reckoned it was a bit like keeping pace with a Jack Russell terrier as Oliver went under a lot of scrub that the rest of us had to circumnavigate.

Angus was an old hand having assisted with the survey last year, then age 12 and also confirmed his navigational skills with GPS.

Even my wife Chris (who is a dyed in the wool paper map person) tried her hand with the GPS and was equally skilful in finding the next site

In addition, we also changed SD cards in trail cameras – 9 in all, that I had assisted DEW in placing in August 2018. These revealed some interesting photos of goats, Malleefowl, lizards, echidnas, cats, birds and foxes, which were of great interest to the boys.

It was a solid day as Karte is thick scrub and sand hills and everybody was starting to feel it by the end of the exercise.

The day ended with a fantastic camp oven roast (thanks Andy D for the cooking and Evan R for supplying 2 very tender and tasty legs of lamb).

We were joined for the evening by DEW District Officer Fiona, which also meant Chris was not the only female at the table. We ended up with 9 of us around the dinner table, resplendent with lace tablecloth and place names! The night wore on but the two boys proved to be stayers and joined in the conversation.

It must have been a good experience for my family as they have all agreed to sign up for next year's survey.

Extract from "No Place for a Woman". The Autobiography of Outback Publican Mayse Young. Mayse Young with Gabrielle Dalton

12 April 1929: The only water we have is salty, and very little of that. We have in the past drunk all sorts of water. Here, if we strike trouble, we can survive on Parakeelya.

This is a form of succulent herb which grows in the desert, and which has green leaves similar to pigweed. They are ninety percent water which is very salty, but it is food and drink. The stock love it. We've been told that stock that comes from places like this have to be taught to drink proper water.

That day we called into Mount Eba sheep station, where we got about three pounds of mutton. It was the first fresh meat we'd had since Alice Springs -so our meal that night was like a feast.

We often saw dingoes. One evening we saw two white ones on the side of the road- a most unusual sight-but they ran off before we could get a good look at them. Not long after this , our dog Rover, had a fit.

He must have taken a dingo bait.

Dad slit his ears to make them bleed- this was supposed to help get some of the poison out of his system-and we poured salty water down his throat to make him sick, but his hind legs cramped and he had convulsion after convulsion.

I tended him. He was a wonderful pet and had been with us for seven years.

We thought we'd lost him, when suddenly he showed signs of pulling through- our remedies had worked

Mt Eba Station, from Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia:

Mount Eba Station is a pastoral lease in outback South Australia that once operated as a sheep station, but now operates as a cattle station.

It is located approximately 125 kilometres north west of Roxby Downs and 158 kilometres south east of Coober Pedy.

It shares boundaries with Millers Creek Station to the north, The Twins Station to the west, Bon Bon Reserve to the south, and Parakylia Station to the east. The property is named for the solitary hill that rises 122m from the surrounding plains.

The plains are mostly vegetated with mulga and saltbush, with salt pans interspersed throughout. Currently the property occupies an area of 3,380 square kilometres.
